Dear Friend

May 2017

Gold is the most important of metals when it comes to wealth protection and globally recognized purchasing power, the next most important metal being silver. What drives the metals market? Let's start with Gold.

Gold is a true form of currency .The Central Banks have been buying much more gold than they have been selling since 2010. A good guess as to the reason for this could be to protect themselves from their own policies!

Countries such as India and China who represent close to 40% of the world's population. Have always been and still are smitten with Gold giving Gold coins and Jewelry as gifts for most every important occasion.

Throughout history, gold has been revered for its unique properties. Its natural brilliant luster does not tarnish. It just keeps on shining through the centuries. As hard as we've tried, Gold can't be created in a laboratory. However, Gold alloys very well with other metals . "Gold is the most malleable of all metals; a single gram can be beaten into a sheet of 1 square meter, and an ounce into 300 square feet. Gold leaf can be beaten thin enough to become transparent."

For over 6000 years Gold has been a natural to use for currency. Because of gold's beauty, rarity and many uses and portability it is highly valued and treasured. The most common ways to hold Gold investments are in the form of Bars, coins Gold IRA's and bullion.

New unearthing of gold mines are becoming few and far between , of lower grade and more difficult and expensive to mine As the world's money supply grows through the extreme printing of paper currencies, it lowers the value of the money. Low or negative interest rates have an effect. When we hold dollars we are paying to hold the government's debt. Savvy investors diversify their assets with gold.

Jim Rickards in "The Daily Reckoning" article May 18,2017

Meanwhile, Jim says this week's sturm und drang masks the real news:

Gold: The most important development this week may be the one you didn't hear about on TV or the internet. On May 10, gold launched a decisive turnaround from its most recent decline... The one major asset class that is showing decisive price action in an upward direction is gold. Expect that to continue.

Gold's down about 11 bucks today after spiking 23 yesterday. This could be an ideal time to "buy the dip."

We believe that one of the best hedges against inflation is to own physical precious metals. Tangible REAL money could be a very wise acquisition for most everyone's financial security. Resource Consultants feels that the most important part of your portfolio is Gold and Silver Bullion bars and coins. These offer a store of wealth and purchasing power which is based on the value of the metal.

If you are new to the physical metals market, you might have the idea that only the very rich can afford Gold or Silver Coins. Nothing could be further from the truth. You can own 1/10 oz. of pure gold for less than $150 or 1oz of silver for less than $20 at the time of this writing.

The political news re Brazil's President Michel Temer fending off a corruption scandal while Brazil is attempting to disentangle herself from a recession -- political concerns in Washington -- brought some volatility back into the markets. Good news for precious metals. Summer volatility is expected. Against all they know and are taught, people tend to follow the herd and buy high and sell low. The winners break away and do the opposite.

Buy the dips whenever possible. Keep in mind that gold and silver are slowly trending up finding higher bottoms as it stair steps forward so don't wait too long.
